

Professional Certificate Course in Investment Management

Investment is a sacrifice in the present in the expectation of a future gain. Investment is putting aside and employing money in financial instruments in the present, with the expectation of a positive rate of return in the future. It is the art of administering the employment of money in financial instruments in the present, with the expectation of a positive rate of return in the future

In investment management, various assets, securities, funds, stocks, real estate are managed to deliver what the investors need. The investors can either be an organization, company and corporations or a private investor- both direct and collective investment.
